The hardships I had to endure it is impossible for me to lay before your Lordship. I can only say it is simply on account of being faithful to the society I bolong to. I was compelled to carry out their orders under any circumstances. The society I belong to is one that assists those who are banished and torn from their friends and sent to Siberia and the other Russian possessions out here. I have been the means of bearing cheering news to several of the exiles from their friends, and I have arranged their affairs for them unknown to the Russian Government for the last seven years, and had had the world offered to me I could not have disoboyed the command I received at that time. The consequence was, after passing from port to port, from one fishing village to another, living on rice and fish, and sometimes for days together on nothing, the natives refused to take me any further. This was at Kosumete, an island. I was forced to construct a raft there to bring me to the mainland, where I noticed there were fishing boats, and after a long struggle I succeeded in reaching a fishing village. It has become public against my will I arrived in this colony with plenty of means to go away with, perhaps without being detected or caught, but, your Lordship, the weight of political affairs I have had to bear, in addition o the story I have had to tell about this wreak -I decided the affair at the Victoria Hotel whether I should give myself up to justice or wait until justice found me out. Colonel John S. Mosby, formerly United States Consul at Hongkong, has obtained a memerial from the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce to the Secretary of the Treasury asking that the custom requiring Consular certificates to be attached to all invoices of merchandise imported into the United States be abolished. An argument which he uses, and which is included in the memorial to the Secretary of the Treasury, is that the merchants willingly comply with the requirement when it applies to dutiable goods, but when applied to merchandise in transit and legally free of duty, it was an outrageous exaction. The Colonel states emphatically that he is opposed to the oppression of commerce to aid in the apport of Consuls. He stated to the reporter that no Consular in-

Loffered to argue the case without fee or award in order to test the case, f the Collector had no right to require the bond, t was a nullity, Macondray & Co., however, preferred writing to Batavia for a Consular invoice to having a controversy with Hager. "I next sued the Government for fees collectd by me and furned into the United States

reasury. Among the fees collected were those or cartifying invoices for free goods. I conended that merchants had a perfect legal remeregainst the Collector's extertion, and that they preferred giving Conville invoices in orer to avoid offending the Collect'r by testing heir rights in court, that there was nothing legal in my certifying to thom, and that havng done the work for the convenience of shipers. I had the right to charge for it. The Court f Claims at Washington has recontly sustained

"I propose to leave here for Washington on brusry 1st, and will take the memorial from he Chamber of Commerce protesting against his unlawful practice at the Custom-house It all be laid before the Secretary of the Treasury Harrison's Administration.

"Secretary Fairobild was seen two years ago A regard to the matter. He inquired if an orer to abandon such a practice would not have as effect of reducing the omolaments of Con-Als. I replied that it certainly would, but that did not think the San Francisco merchants could be taxed $100,000 annually for the benefit

Colonel Mosby further stated that the conguess have two remedies against the unlawful. -test, to give a bond to produce the invoice ad then defend a suit on the bond, and secondly compel the Collector by mandamns to deliver te goods without either bond or invoice.

For the convenience of the public a Peak delivery has been established. Letter boxes have been placed in the tram cars and correspondence will be delivered by the twelve and four o'clock cars only. Local rates will be charged. Correspondence addressed to the Peak may be posted in the General Post Office up to 11.30 a.m. and 3.30 p.m., or in the Letter Boxes in the cars till time of departure. Correspondence from the Peak may be posted in the Letter Boxes up to twelve and four o'clock. Parcels for the Peak may be posted in the General Post Office only up to 11.30 a.m and 3.30 p.m. There will be no Sunday delivery. Covers containing bank notes, jewellery. de should not be posted. To avoid robbery wonders of letters are requested to cancel their stamps by writing the word 'stamped' across them.

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addressee need do is to note on the cover, Sent to - or Received at 7 plan, or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which trenerally gives more trouble in the end.

The Postal Guide for 1888, revised to date will be found in the Daily Press Directory. 389 large edition, p. 733 small edition. This s the only authorised complete Summary of Postal information published in Hongkong.

Hongkong, 17th December, 1888. NOW ON SALE. INPERIAL QUARTO,

NGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION:

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronu ciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charac-

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration :---Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Modhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various amplications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of the nexamples this work contains more than fire times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. 179 To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

> It comprises upwards of two thousand large 4 Vols. IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price, $20.
